After exploiting my proactive and organized side in the world of education and languages I retrained myself to be a web developer.

I'm always in search of new career and learning challenges and I found in the tech sector the opportunity to learn and enjoy my creative self and my problem-solving approach. What am I attracted to the most about the tech world? Working cooperatively as part of a team, daily challenges to keep your mind active, and the possibility to work in international and multidisciplinary environments.
